The Many Faces Of Jack Mobley

"I ran for office before I decided not to run for office before I decided to run for office." - Jack Mobley

Jack Mobley is a perennial candidate for office, losing elections in 2008, 2010, 2012. These Facts Tell a Story of the Battle for California's 21st Assembly District.

November 2008

• Mobley rejected in Assembly election.

November 2010

• Mobley rejected in Assembly election.

(* California Secretary of State official election results.)

November 2012

• Mobley rejected in Assembly election.

(* California Secretary of State official election results.)

March 2014

• Mobley decided not to run for Assembly and didn't file papers by the deadline on March 7, 2014. (Merced Sun Star, March 8*, 2014)

May 2014

• Mobley was approached by GOP Party Boss and partner in one of Sacramento's largest lobbying and government relations firms, Jim Brulte, to run as a write-in candidate in the June primary election against Assemblyman Adam Gray. There is a "loop-hole" in California law that allows a write-in candidate to be placed on the November general election ballot even if they receive just one vote.

• Mobley and his wife were unsure as they didn't want to risk losing more money on another campaign. But GOP Boss Brulte made Mobley an offer he could not refuse. The deal was made.

"Quite frankly I was not going to run but the folks in Sacramento have been trying to get me to change my mind…" Jack Mobley

(* Merced Sun-Star May 21, 2014)

"After three losing efforts Mobley thought he was done with politics because he didn't want to finance his own campaign"

(* Merced Sun-Star May 27, 2014)

"The level of assurance this time is higher. They made some commitments they would be with me until the end of the race." - Jack Mobley

(* Merced Sun-Star May 27, 2014)

"What put him over the edge was a phone call from Jim Brulte, the Chair of the California Republican Party, Mobley said he personally asked him to run and promised him full support of the party including fundraising and all those kind of things."

(*Interview Conducted before June 2014 Primary, Published in Merced County Times, August 14, 2014)

"Mobley talked to his wife and she responded with this…but we are not putting anymore of our money into it. Mobley said he took that back to an understanding Brulte and then Mobley agreed to run with the parties support."

(*Interview Conducted before June 2014 Primary, Published in Merced County Times, August 14, 2014)

September/October 2014

The Mobley campaign benefits from $750,000 in so called "Independent Expenditures" with over 90% of the money coming from the Independent Expenditure committee operated by Republican Party chair, Jim Brulte, a partner in one of Sacramento's leading lobbying and government relations firms.

(*Official Secretary of State Records)

Independent Expenditures by law must be separate and "independent" of a candidate's campaign and cannot coordinate with the campaign. But Mobley's campaign manager, Johnny Alverado was getting paid by both the GOP Independent Expenditure Committee and the Mobley Campaign.

A complaint on this matter has been filed with the Fair Political practices commission. Any action will likely take place after the election is long over, but Mobley's deposition, and the sworn testimony of people involved in this shell game, and the statements of witnesses to Mobley's comments to them since last May will not only make for interesting reading, they will shatter the thinly veiled Mobley/Brultes big lie.

Describe, With as Much Particularity as Possible, the Facts Constituting the Alleged Violation(s) and How You Have Personal Knowledge that it Occurred.*

Details are attached, but the State and County Republican Party committees have been actively coordinating with Jack Mobley in his race for Assembly, 21st District, including fundraising, phones, mail and consulting, all reported as in-kind contributions. Beginning October 7, 2014, CRP began doing radio and online ads and phone banks, but it began reporting them as Independent expenditures. These expenditures have been over $300,000 and are continuing. I don't believe they are Independent as Mobley has said numerous times that the State Party is helping him.
